PROGRESSIVE AUTHOR CLUB

Entertained Last Night by Miss Dot Thacker—Club Disbands for the Summer.

The Progressive Author Club was delightfully entertained last evening by Miss Dot Thacker at her home on West Gaston street. This was the last meeting the Club will have until next fall, and knowing it to be the last one, the young folks crowded all the fun possible in the few short hours.

The prize, a pretty book, was won by Miss Pauline Pretzfelder, and Mr. Wistar Stockard was awarded the booby, a "dummy" watch. Those present were Misses Bonnie Bishop, Pauline Pretzfelder, Mamie Walker, Bessie Grissom, Carrie Wood, Louise Bradshaw, Margaret Merrimon, Lillian Adams, Lena Lee, Mabel Leak. Messrs. Archer Dalton, Rowland Hill, Jesse Mebane, Fred Crawford, Wistar Stockard, Clyde Lyon, Meredith Turner, Wade Stockard, Irving Eldridge, Worth Ross, Jules Lindau, and Charlie Alderman.

A Pleasant Occasion.

Misses Lelia and Lillian Pitts entertained a few of their friends at their home on West Lee street last night from 8:30 to 11:30. Music, pleasant conversation and delightful refreshments served to make the evening a most pleasant one to those who were fortunate enough to be present.

Minstrel Show at Guilford College.

The Athletic Association of Guilford College gave a minstrel performance at the College last night. A number of Greensboro people attended, and report the entertainment to have been a very creditable one for amateur talent. After the performance, refreshments were served.

Mr. P. G. Welsh returned last night from the eastern part of the State.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS GO UP IN FLAMES.

JACKSONVILLE NOW IN RUINS

THE MOST DESTRUCTIVE FIRE EVER IN THE SOUTH.

Loss Estimated to be $15,000,000—Over 130 City Blocks Burned, Destroying 1300 Buildings—Seven Fine Hotels, Many Churches, Schools and Residences Wiped Out—Mayor Says no Lawlessness Exists—Burned District Patrolled by Militia.

The most destructive fire that ever raged over a Southern city swept over Jacksonville, Florida, yesterday. The fire originated in the American Fibre Company's factory between twelve and one o'clock, and was caused by an insignificant looking piece of wire becoming displaced.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 4.—A report was circulated this morning that a party of twenty persons had been driven by the fire to the docks along the St. Johns river and forced into the water. All attempts to rescue them by boats were futile. The river is being searched.

Military companies from four cities came by special trains to Jacksonville to relieve the local militia which has been on duty since midnight. Many extra policemen have been sworn in. Every able bodied man not doing duty in some capacity in the fire swept district has been pressed into service. Negroes are huddled in groups in various parts of the city. Fire companies from Savannah, Ocala and other cities, worked like heroes. The losses will not be known for weeks. Street car service is at a standstill. Electric light circuits and gas plant are destroyed. A conservative estimate places the number of homeless at tenthouse and. Most of them spent the night in parks, on barges and some slept alongside the few belongings that had been saved. The board of trade held a relief meeting this morning.

LATER—An appeal to the people of the United States will be issued this afternoon. Mayor Bowden said at noon "Say to the world that the loss in Jacksonville is greater than has ever before been inflicted upon a Southern city by fire, but Jacksonville's best wealth still survives in her people. I estimate our property loss to be fifteen millions. Not a hint of lawlessness. Our people of every race and condition showed a most helpful spirit. I cannot find words strong enough to express my appreciation of their work."

Jacksonville, Fla., May 3.—At 12:45 today Jacksonville experienced the most disastrous fire of her existence. The entire length of Beaver street from Davis street to the creek on Liberty street, has been totally destroyed. This is 14 solid blocks of residences. For the same distance Ashley and Church streets have both been blotted out. When the fire reached Bridge street in its eastward course it enveloped in flames three blocks, Duval, Monroe and the north side of Adams, burning up that entire section of the city, and running 14 blocks to the Duval street bridge. How much further in that direction the city is burned it is impossible to learn, the street being impassable, but it is feared that St. Luke's Hospital was burned, a report reaching the city that the Presbyterian church in East Jacksonville is ablaze. If this is correct the fire must have extended five blocks further east. The conflagration has burned as far as is definitely known over a distance of two and one half miles, by a half-mile wide. When the fire reached Julia street it was a roaring furnace without any prospect of being put under control.

MILITARY KEEPS BACK CROWDS.

The local military companies were called out to keep back the crowds, and the fire department began to use dynamite to blow up the houses a block from the fire and thus prevent the fire from spreading. So fierce was the blaze, however, and so strong had become the wind that millions of sparks and flying, burning shingles spread over five or six blocks, setting the roofs of the houses on fire in advance of the department. Soon Senator Taliaferro's residence, then the adjoining houses on the block, were ablaze and in spite of all efforts to save the Windsor and the St. James Hotels both buildings were quickly enveloped in flames. For about an hour the guests in the Windsor had been busily packing their trunks and went away loaded with trunks and grips, some, unfortunately, to the United States Hotel, but most to Riverside.

BURNING OF THE ELKS' HOME. Leaping madly across the street from the Windsor the fire attacked the Seilis House and then the Methodist parsonage, and in a few moments Trinity Methodist church was a mass of flames. The opera house block followed, and the Richards and Livingstone boarding houses. A desperate effort was made to save the Baldwin mansion, which was recently purchased by the Elks for $18,000. No earthly power could save this building and that entire block and the one west was quickly a mass of flames. Once the fire got started on Main street, the closely adjoining buildings went one after another. Paints with barrels of oil were plentiful in this district, and as they caught on fire one after the other the blaze rose hundreds of feet high and quickly set the other buildings across the street on fire.

DYNAMITE AND POWDER EXPLODE. Then the Hubbard Hardware Store caught, and the people scattered when they saw what had happened. Hundreds of pounds of powder and a great deal of dynamite was stored in this building. Ten minutes passed when suddenly there was a roar and the building collapsed like an egg shell. The dynamite and powder had exploded. Here again there was much danger to the firemen. Cartridges began to explode and bullets began to fly around, and the effort to fight the fire at this point had for a time to be abandoned. This was only the start of the most intense part of the fire. The new Furchgott building was soon ablaze, and the Cardiner building was a mass of flames. Down the street the fire spread with rapidity and the entire section of Bay street from Market to Main street, and extending for five blocks back, was burning all at once. MAGNIFICENT BUILDINGS WIPED OUT. The city building went, the fire department building, the armory, the county court house, the clerk's office, with the county records, the Criminal court house, the city jail and the graded schools and the Catholic church and orphanage, St. John's Episcopal church and the convent. The entire city of magnificent buildings all burned up in less than four hours. The scene was one that beggars description. At 8:30 the fire was checked at the intersection of Laura and Bay streets where the Commercial Bank, which went up in flames, was located, the Western Union Telegraph office being just across the street and not damaged.

THREE HOTELS GONE. Among the prominent hotels burned were the St. James, the United States, the Placide and the Windsor. It is impossible at this hour to ascertain the losses, but it is said by insurance agents that it will be between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000. Six lives are reported lost in the conflagration. The mayor has called a meeting of the city council for tomorrow to consider ways and means for relieving the sufferers.

SOME OF THE LOSSES. A partial list of estimated losses up to 1:30 this (Saturday) morning, are as follows: Cleveland manufac-

DR. McIVER AT RICHMOND.

HIS SPEECH THE FEATURE OF THE OCCASION.

The Graduation Exercises of the University College of Medicine Attended by a Vast Concourse of People—Many North Carolina Boys Among the Graduates, who for the First Time in History of the Institution Wear Caps and Gowns.

Dr. Charles D. McIver returned last night from Richmond, Va., where he delivered on Thursday night an able address before the graduating class of the University College of Medicine on the occasion of the eighth annual commencement of that institution. Speaking of his visit, Dr. McIver says he never spoke to a larger and more enthusiastic audience than on this occasion. In the graduating class of eighty-one students, nineteen were from North Carolina, and at the conclusion of the exercises the North Carolina students crowded around Dr. McIver, and to the Doctor's surprise and gratification he found that three of the nineteen graduates had sisters under his care at the State Normal College.

The commencement was a brilliant one, and the graduating class, for the first time in the history of the institution, appeared in caps and gowns.

In speaking of the commencement address the Richmond Dispatch says:

Professor Charles D. McIver, L. D., president of the State Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro, N. C., was introduced, and spoke for an hour upon "The best Field for Investment in the South." Dr. McIver's speech was along educational lines, and was at once instructive and highly entertaining. The subject was treated in an original manner, and gave facts and statistics of startling importance.

In beginning his speech Dr. McIver said:

"In North Carolina we are proud of your college. Every true southerner is proud of Virginia and of Richmond, and rejoices in whatever adds to the prosperity and glory of either."

"We claim almost any equal state with you in the name of Stonewall Jackson and of his great surgeon, Hunter McGuire. In addition to our interest in your college, because of our veneration for the name and work of its great founder, and because of its phenomenal growth and prestige, gained in less than a decade, we feel a peculiar pride that at its head, worthily succeeding the great president you have lost, is one of the many gifted sons North Carolina has had the fortune and misfortune to give to other States. The career of Dr. Hodges in his native State as teacher, physician, lecturer, and citizen, was such that no surprise will be caused there by any success he may achieve or any honor that may come to him in his adopted home."

"I have accepted the invitation to speak to you tonight for two reasons—first, because I was asked to choose some subject connected with education, and second, because you are going to be physicians, and will influence the thinking and acting of more people in the next quarter of a century than any other hundred men whom I will have the opportunity to address this year."

INFLUENCE OF DOCTORS.

"While not forgetting that I belong to the most influential of all professions, if all future results are counted, yet I recognize the fact that no profession equals yours in the influence exerted upon the generation in which it labors. All worthy professions have the respect and support of intelligent people, but yours is the only profession that has the absolute confidence and affection of the ignorant."

"This respect on the part of the ignorant may be due in part to the universal dread of sickness, pain, and death; partly to the awe-inspiring silence and dignity of the typical physician, and partly to the fact when

W. C. T. U Department.

A great many people do not realize what the abolishing of the canteen means to the average soldier. Not only does he lose his drink but it materially affects his food. Formerly the profits of the beer sold were divided between the members of the companies and the funds used to purchase articles of diet, such as condensed milk, butter, cheese, tea and spices. It will be readily seen that this added variety to the monotonous and sometimes scanty bill of fare.

If the added appropriation is made by Congress the good act of abolishing the canteen will be well rounded up and the contentment, and, in a large measure, the sobriety of the men assured. In the meantime the W. C. T. U. should be putting forth every effort to furnish counter attractions, in the shape of reading rooms, with coffee and other refreshments. Of course they have not now the means to equip such places as the Agnes Weston coffee and refreshment rooms in England for the navy, but they should do everything in their power to help and uplift the soldiers, and to fill the place made vacant by the loss of the canteen.

In reviewing the situation Mrs. J. K. Barney, who is now in Cuba doing good work among the soldiers, says:

"It is in some respects an unnatural life lived by the soldiers. In the absence of home restraints, herded together, young and with unformed characters there are conditions which must be met promptly and vigorously. When we consider how much the cheerfulness and general deportment of our best beloved depends on their food and drink, and the old proverb, 'the way to a man's heart is through his stomach,' we feel sympathetic in this critical time in our army and wonder what the future will develop.

SCIENTIFIC TEMPERANCE INSTRUCTION.

Too much cannot be said in favor of scientific temperance instruction in the schools. Lessons on the subject interestingly gotten up and illustrated, showing the evil effects of intoxicating liquors and cigarettes on the human system, will do more to instill temperance principles into the minds of the boys and girls than dozens of temperance lectures after they grow up. The lessons learned during the first few years of a child's school life are the ones he never forgets and then is the time to teach temperance as carefully and conscientiously as arithmetic is taught. It would be a good plan for every teacher to form anti-cigarette leagues in her department and do everything possible against the deadly cigarette, which is ruining so many of our boys today.

To Prevent Young Men Becoming Bachelors.

Philadelphia Press.

At the eighth annual reunion of St. Mary's parish the rector, Father Thomas took occasion to talk plainly to the unmarried men of his flock.

He declared that hereafter he proposed to tax all unmarried men in his parish above twenty-five years of age $25 a year until they reach the age of thirty-five, when they will be taxed $50.

After that age they will be exempt from the tax, as the priest claims no woman would care to marry them then.

He said: "I do not propose to open a matrimonial agency, but something has got to be done to keep so many of these bright intelligent young men from remaining bachelors.

Too Late.

After hearing evidence in an assault case between man and wife, in which the wife had had a deal of provocation, the magistrate, turning to the husband, remarked:

"My good man, I really cannot do anything in this case."

"But she has cut a piece of my ear off, sir."

"Well," said the magistrate, "I will bind her over to keep the peace."

"You can't," shouted the husband, "she's thrown it away."

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.
For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

The Destiny of Dolores

By Kate M. Cleary.

(Copyright, 1901, by the Authors' Syndicate.)

It was with a vague sense of unreality that Dolores found herself answering the questions of the clerk. She wondered if he noticed anything strange about her—if he was in the smallest degree suspicious. A glance at her reflection in the mirror over the soda water fountain reassured her. It was a calm face that looked back at her—an attractive face. The wide-apart black brows arched on the serene white brow, and the lips of firmness and sweetness gave to the face its air of dignity—of nobility. No—there was no obvious reason why he should surmise that she needed the liquid for other than disinfecting purposes. She took the bottle wrapped in glazed paper, and left the store. It was early in the afternoon, and the day was divine. The air was not sharp, although November was at hand. It was soothing—mellow, as old wine. State street looked less commercial and more poetic to the wide, clear, penetrating gaze of Dolores Burnett than she had fancied possible.

"It must be because I am seeing it for the last time," she said to herself. She stood on the doorstep and looked north and south. The sidewalks of both the fashionable east side and the workday west side of the street were crowded. The last fine Saturday of the season had tempted many out. A hustling, hurrying, colliding crowd—what a conglomerate, bewildering, pitiable, fascinating, suggestive spectacle they all made.

A man passing recognized Miss Burnett and raised his hat.

She bowed—a queer, whimsical, little smile curving the corners of her mouth when he had passed.

"He has taken three of my stories," she murmured. "And he will pay for them on publication." She glanced down at the vial in the glazed paper. "I wonder if he would pay for one of them now if he knew!"

Then she decided it did not matter—did not matter in the least. A few more written—a few more accepted—or a few less. She couldn't make enough to live on if all were paid on acceptance—every one of them.

"Five years!" she said. "Five years of poverty, of ambition, of sacrifice—and at the end, failure!" She had reached the pavement, was walking southward, mechanically avoiding contact with people while not really seeing them. She walked with the firm, assured, undeviating step of those familiar with city streets. Suddenly she paused, arrested by a flame of color—saffron, and crimson and purple.

"Asters, lady?" cried the man, standing beside his wicker basket at the curb. "Asters, dahlias—marigolds?"

She shook her head and went on. She had no money for flowers. No money for anything if it came to that—not even for carfare. But the sight of the old-fashioned blooms had brought a wave of homesickness which seemed to wrench all physical strength from her and leave her weak and trembling. How plainly she saw it—the old home! The square green farmhouse, with its clematis-covered porch, its sweep of sward, its flower beds outlined with mathematical precision. And it was in the summer-house there—the warped old summer-house—that she had told Everett Harper she could never be his wife.

"My work is mapped out for me," she had said. "I have been scribbling all my life. I want to be a writer. I shall not be content with a little success. I must become famous. And I shall. I've been reading a great deal about the women who have succeeded. They almost all went to cities. Many worked hard for a time on newspapers. I can do it—I know I can. It's my destiny!"

"But you cannot go to the city alone, dear heart!" he cried, aghast. He did not like her sad name of Dolores, and seldom called her by it. "Besides, this whim—"

"It is no whim!" she had flared out. "It is the work I am born to do—the work I am fitted to do. Now that my mother is dead, and brother Rob and his wife are running the place, I'm only in the way. No one will miss me if I go—"

"No one!" he had said, passionately. "Oh, love—my love!" Huskiness caught him strangely. She only noticed what an ugly tie he wore.

"You won't care after awhile. Perhaps you don't care now. Perhaps you only think you care!"

"Dolores!" he said, in a tone she had never heard him use before.

She had always been her own mistress. She had lived in books. She had exaggerated ideas of the facility with which one, imaginative, although untrained might earn a living by literary work. And she did not dream that in such work experienced mediocrity counts for more than crude, unpolished talent.

"I don't mean to hurt you, Everett, but I must succeed—I must! I know what a pleasant home you have to offer the woman you marry, and how hard you have worked to gain it. I know how good you are, and if it were not that I must work out my destiny—"

"I shall wait!" declared the young farmer, grimly. "I shall wait—always. And if all should not be as you fancy—if things go wrong—"

"Nothing will go wrong!" She was sufficiently youthful and pretty in those days to be arrogant without arousing resentment. "Nothing! I will succeed."

For awhile she had almost gloried in her rebuffs—in her disappointments. Those who had won recognition had had to bear the heat and fardel of the day. Her education was better than that of many of the women she met whose work was remunerative. She had health. Enthusiasm—that most inspiring stimulant—was hers. And she worked hard.

But this was the end of it all—failure. Something she had missed—what, she did not know. Lack of hereditary taste, the privilege of "stumbling against books in babyhood," as Emerson asserted he had done, or the absence of congenial companionship during a young life of rural isolation—at all events her poems were not printed, her critical articles came back, envelopes ominously thick continued to meet her with satiric silence, and publishers made suave and insufficient excuses for the return of her laboriously written manuscripts.

She could not—she would not go home. Besides, she had the vial in the glazed red paper. Her grip tightened on it when she again recalled the asters and the marigolds in the triangular bed near the summer house. The summer house where—

"Dear heart!" came a voice. "Is it really you?"

The intersection of Adams and State streets was crowded. She turned with a start. The bottle fell from her hand. It shivered into a hundred fragments on the sidewalk. A pungent, penetrating odor arose. Shaking, the girl looked into the kind, eager face of her old lover!

"Dolores! What a lucky chance! I have looked for you every year I came to town to sell my cattle. But you had hidden yourself too well. How thin you are—how changed. You have been sick—you are sick!"

There was a roaring in her ears. She put out her hand blindly. It was grasped in a good, tight, hard clasp—the kind of a grip that steadies heart and brain.

"My poor girl! The fight is too hard for you! Come—we must get away from this crush. What stuff was in that bottle—carbolic acid? Phew! how it smells! There—it's quieter here. Walk slowly. Lean on me. You're feeling better now?"

The protecting presence, the expression of anxious solicitude, the brooding tenderness of the familiar voice brought to her in an instant a revelation of life and love—of all that she had hitherto failed to appreciate—of all that she must never lose out of her life in all the days to be!

"Everett," she whispered, "do you want me to go home with you now? Or—or is there anyone—else?"

"There could never be anyone else, dear heart."

"Some time I shall tell you what I meant to do—to-day!"

"Never mind telling me." The steadfast love in his eyes thrilled her. "Only—come home. And try to care for me—if you can. You are tired out. The old place is beautiful now."

COMTESSE IN WRESTLING BOUT

Athletic American Woman, Defeated by Her Fiance, Throws Man Who Taunted Her in Two Minutes.

The young Comtesse de Becker is the heroine of an episode which has been excitedly discussed in the most exclusive Franco-American set.

A tall blonde, the comtesse is fond of her reputation as an all-round athlete. She was formerly Helene Richman, of Detroit. Two years ago she divorced her titled Viennese husband.

Lately her strength being challenged by her fiance, she offered to wrestle him before 20 intimate friends of both sexes. His victory was stubbornly disputed. The first bout lasted 20 minutes and the second 14. The comtesse was defeated twice. She wore a suit which was startlingly practical.

After the necessary toilet the wrestlers and the crowd adjourned to a supper in a private room at the Cafe Anglaise, where in the course of a joyous feast the comtesse was taunted upon her defeat. She promptly challenged the main offender, Count de Lautrec, and defeated him in two minutes, proving that it took a really strong man to beat her.

Parisian society is making such a protest over the comtesse's actions that she may make her residence in London hereafter.

A Precautionary Law in Vermont.

The Vermont custom of not hanging a convicted murderer until two years after the passing of the death sentence upon him is founded on the assumption that any possible doubt as to his guilt will be removed in that time, and all danger of putting an innocent man to death is thus eliminated.

Louisville's Property.

The assessment for personal and real property in the county in which Louisville is situated is $129,174,504.

Tale with a Moral.

There was once a Woman who had Never Learned how to Swim, although she Went in Bathing every day in the Summer. She had a Friend who had Acquired this Art with Some Trouble, and was very Proud of her Proficiency in it.

"It is Absurd," said this Friend, "to Live near the Water and not Swim. It makes you very Attractive to Good Swimmers if you can Go Out with them, and they do Not Feel that you are a Drag on their Pleasures. What would you Do in Case you Fell off the Pier? Now, Watch me!"

With these words she Dived off into the Water and Swam about by Herself.

"It is a Good Thing to have a Woman Swim so Well," said one of the Men near by; "Now, if any of the Children fall into the Water, she can Rescue them."

Just then the Woman who Could Not help Herself uttered a Scream and Fell into the Sea. Instantly Five Men leaped in to Rescue Her, and Spent the Rest of the Day Resuscitating her and Inquiring How she Was, leaving the Swimmer to Dive by Herself.

This teaches us that Nothing Succeeds like Distress.—Century.

BRAVE MEN FALL.

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

CAUGHT A DREADFUL COLD.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased."

A TESTIMONIAL FROM OLD ENGLAND.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mrs. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parson & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommend it so highly that I thought I would try it. I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this liniment to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." or sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

FRIDAY, MAY 3.

The Wilmington Star remarks that while "some countries have been drenched with rain, and drowned out Australia has been suffering from excessive dryness, so much that 50,000,000 sheep have perished. The drought has lasted for six years." And pray, what becomes of the municipal water works in "dose times?"

Mr. Hearst's Atlanta Daily News says:

"No sir!" exclaimed Mayor Livingston Mims this morning, walking to and fro in his office, "No, Sir! I will not be made ridiculous by these newspapers!"

"What's the trouble?" inquired a sympathetic bystander.

"It's the damned reporters!" quoth the mayor, wiping the perspiration from his forehead, as he continued his rapid walk.

"What have they done now?" asked the friend.

"Done?" shouted the mayor. Everything they ought not to do. A man can't come in my office on a friendly visit without its being published abroad, and some deep significance being attached to it. I say something in pleasantry and I find it put in the papers under those confounded immense headlines. I won't have it! I'll be—well, I won't have anything to say to any of 'em! I won't have them around me at all!"

The mayor was particularly incensed because the Daily News quoted him correctly on Monday of this week as saying in his public meetings of the heads of the city departments that Atlanta was getting its electric lights about as cheap as any other city.

He considers this a most unfortunate utterance.

"Of course, I did say it," he acknowledged, "but how in blazes can I have any arbitration now? not realizing that the arbitration was a matter of law and not of personal preference."

Which shows that yellow journalism has decided to look after the city of Atlanta and see that everything goes right. Atlanta ought not to object to this, as she is a yellow town.

Commenting on the fact that Mr. Th. Jefferson, who was an inventor, never applied for a patent because he believed in the natural rights of men to enjoy the use of all implements without restraint, the hard-hearted Raleigh Post remarks:

We therefore toss our bouquet to our late friend, Mr. Jefferson, for his consistency in adhering to his belief in the "natural rights of all mankind to share useful improvements without restraint;" and had his views become the established policy of the government, we may not have had so many improvements throwing men and women out of employment, neither would we have had the trust and monopoly idea so thoroughly grounded in common practice or popular faith. To the patent laws of the country more than to any other one agency, and its twin brother the protective tariff, can be attributed the growth of trusts and millionaires. Mr. Jefferson had the nerve to suspend, of his own volition, without the consent of our Congress or waiting for the consent of any other nation on earth, the coinage of silver because the latter dollar had appreciated a fraction of one cent, above gold; it may be a pity that he did not carry his faith in the natural rights of men to the extent of prohibiting monopoly through patent laws.

Which leads us to remark that there were some good prints about Th. Jefferson.

The High Point Enterprise says:

Railroad Commissioner Rogers, who was here Saturday, was talking about the value of North Carolina timber. He said that he had only one story to relate and that was a big one. A man in Western North Carolina was selling standing timber—walnut trees. The man who was buying came to one very handsome tree. He told the owner he could pay as much as $50 for that tree. This excited the owner. He did not sell but sent for experts. The owner got $1,500 for the tree (curled walnut) as it stood. The man who cut it down realized $3,000 for it on the cars. It was shipped to New York and veneered 1-16 to 1-2 inch. The sales were watched and estimated as best that could be done, and when all was disposed of it turned out that the tree brought near $60,000. The point of it is this: We have no idea as to the value of our timber, much of which is being sent North for a mere song. We can become rich in North Carolina if we work our raw material as others work it for us.

There may or may not be any thing fishy about this story, but it is certain that the statement that we do not know, nor care, possibly, the value of our timber, is true. The press of the State can do nothing better than to press upon the public the fact that the forests must be cared for.

A dispatch of the first instance from Pretoria said:

The British troops who have come to understand the sniping tactics of the Boers at isolated points and the danger therefrom, are now adopting the same methods. Boer snipers have recently been raiding cattle in all directions and have outwitted a number of outposts four miles from Johannesburg recently hid in the long grass near where cattle were grazing and waited for four days for the burghers to appear. The burghers came down and commenced to drive the cattle away when the British disclosed themselves and opened fire. The Boers then fled leaving two on the field.

Your British soldier will learn something if you give him time, always.

On Monday the people of the Guilford College community will vote upon the question of establishing a graded school. We have never heard of an instance in which such a measure was voted in that proved unsatisfactory. We hope the people of this thriving community will take the right end of the proposition.

About 400 crates of strawberries were shipped from points up the Wilmington & Weldon railroad yesterday, against 200 on the day before. New York sales are reported at from 35 to 40 cents per quart.—Wilmington Star.

And thus we in North Carolina strike our "ile." It is not so fussy a speculators as the oil gushers of Texas, but it has mighty good staying qualities.

Perhaps everybody now knows exactly what a Democrat is—in his own mind.

NOTED NORTH CAROLINIAN

Dr. McIver Tells of His Atlanta and Richmond Trips.

Dr. C. D. McIver, when seen by a Telegram reporter gave out the following concerning his recent trips to Atlanta and Richmond:

"I was very much impressed with the rapid development of the University College of Medicine at Richmond, Va. It has completed its eighth year. It was founded by Dr. Hunter McGuire and some twenty physicians associated with him in 1893. There are now fifty-five members of the faculty, with Dr. J. Allison Hodges as president, and it has matriculated nearly two thousand students from twenty-seven states. The class which graduated last week numbered eighty-one, representing 11 states. There were twenty North Carolinians in the class."

"Dr. Hodges is a native of this state and has been with the college since it was founded. Mrs. Hodges is the daughter of the late Julius A. Gray, of Greensboro. Dr. Hodges' North Carolina friends have every reason to be proud of the work he is doing. Recently I have been impressed more than usual by the many successful men North Carolina is giving to other states. A conspicuous part on the program at Richmond was taken by Rev. Dr. Robert Strange, of Richmond, who is one of the strongest preachers in the South and is one of North Carolina's contributions to Virginia. It is interesting also to remember that the head of the University of Virginia, Dr. Paul Barringer, and the head of the Theological Seminary in Richmond, Dr. W. N. Moore, are North Carolinians.

"When in Atlanta recently I saw Hon. Hoke Smith, a native North Carolinian, and one of the foremost educational statesmen of the South, I was glad to hear of the success in Atlanta of men like Shepard Bryan and Charlie L. Pettigrew and Frank B. Daucey. I was told that Rev. John E. White, who had recently gone to Atlanta, was producing a very fine impression, and that Rev. Dr. Charles Byrd was the best Methodist preacher in Atlanta. The night I spent in Atlanta Rev. L. G. Broughton had a congregation of two to three thousand people at his tabernacle. At the Southern Conference for education at Winston-Salem all of the vice-presidents, Page of New York, Rondthaler of Winston-Salem, and Branson of Georgia, were North Carolina people. Rev. Robert P. Pell, of South Carolina, Dr. Alderman of Louisiana, and Dr. Dabney of Tennessee were also members of the Winston-Salem Conference. The two former are natives of North Carolina, and Dr. Dabney lived in the State for a number of years until he was called to Tennessee.

"It is a great state that can send out so many strong men. It would be greater if it could keep them at home and use them to its own development."

To Enter Other business.

Mr. G. T. McLean & Son, who for the past six years have been doing a retail grocery business on Asheboro street, have decided to close out their business. They will remain in the city, engaging in another line of business, which for the present, will not be made public.

Capt. E. L. to Return.

This regiment will be mustered out at San Francisco. Capt. E. L. Gilmer belongs with this regiment and his many friends here will be glad to see him again. The trip across will occupy about thirty days.

B. Owens' residence $8,000. MR. CLEVELAND DROPS DEAD—NEGROES GO CRAZY.

Mr. W. J. Cleveland in whose premises the fire originated and who was one of the heaviest losers, dropped dead from excitement. A stalwart negro, bringing a trunk on his head from a burning building, went crazy from the horror of the situation. He ran around in a circle with the trunk on his head until he sank exhausted and died. Women ran through the streets tearing their hats and clothes, and in several instances had almost denuded themselves when they were caught by friends and led to places of safety. Horses hitched to trunks could not be cut loose quickly enough and many of them ran wild through the demoralized throng. At night the military was ordered out to guard the household goods piled high in vacant lots.

130 BLOCKS BURNED.

The fire began yesterday shortly after noon in a small factory, from a defective wire, according to the best belief. It burned for nearly ten hours. In that time a property damage from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 was effected. According to the city map, 130 blocks were burned, many of them in the heart of the business and residence section. The estimate of houses to block is ten, therefore 1,300 of them went up in smoke. Many of the finest public and private houses were burned. The casualties were several among them was that of the fire chief, who sustained a bad fall. The mayor ordered all of the saloons closed, and has impressed help to clear the wreckage.

A SCENE OF DESOLATION.

At 1 a. m. the situation is one approaching desolation in a large section of the city. The burned district reaches from Burbridge street, on the north, to the St. Johns river on the south, a distance of quite two miles. The width of the desolated area is 13 blocks. Within this space practically everything is blackened ruins. On Bay street, the principal centre of trade, the Western Union Telegraph building is the first going west. Everything east of Laura, on Bay street, is gone. At 10:15 p. m., the fire was under control, having practically burned itself out. The suburban settlements, with the exception of La Villa, are intact. La Villa was badly hurt. The extent of the damage cannot be told until tomorrow. Thousands of persons are on the streets tonight, homeless, with practically all their worldly possessions upon their backs. The depots of the railroads, situated in the southeastern section, have been turned into temporary lodging houses and hospitals. Luckily the weather is fine, so that there will be no suffering on that score. Meetings of the city council, the commercial bodies and the charitable institutions will be called Saturday morning to devise ways and means for meeting the situation. It is not known yet whether an appeal for help will be issued though it is thought likely that the exigencies of the occasion demand such action. It is hoped that an appeal can be avoided. Mayor Bowden this morning says the property loss will exceed $15,000,000. Ten thousand to 15,000 people are homeless.

The diseases most feared are those which are inherited—handed down from generation to generation, and family to family. By far the most destructive of these is Cancer, which finds the greatest number of its victims among the children and grand-children of those whose blood was tainted with this dreadful malady. You may carry this poison in the blood for years, but as the vital powers begin to wane a slight bruise or cut, wart or mole, sore or pimple may develop into Cancer. From middle life to old age is the time when the slumbering poison is most apt to break out, a sore or ulcer often degenerating into Cancer, and Tumors become more progressive and ulcerate through the skin, the sharp, shooting pains causing the most intense suffering.

The Cancer patient naturally grows despondent as one after another the usual remedies fail, and the sore shows no sign of healing. The impurities that have been accumulating in the system, perhaps for generations, cannot be eliminated nor the poisoned blood made pure by salves, washes and plasters. The proper treatment is to purify and build up the blood, remove the cause, when the sore or ulcer heals.

"S. S. S. goes directly into the blood, destroys the virus, stops the formation of Cancerous cells and cleanses the system of impurities. What we say of S. S. S. as a cure for Cancer is supported by the testimony of those who have tested it and been restored to health. Begin in time, don't wait until the blood is so polluted and the system so thoroughly saturated with the poison that no medicine, however efficacious, can check the progress of the disease. If there is a taint in your blood get it out at once, don't wait for some external evidence of it, the appearance of a tumor or ulcer. We have prepared a special book on Cancer which we will mail free. Our physicians are ready to help you by their advice and such direction as your case requires. Write us fully and freely—no charge for medical advice. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

he does speak, his phraseology, though soothing as a mother's tender lullaby, is frequently beyond the comprehension of us ordinary mortals; but universal and abiding love cannot be secured by fear or by any artificial expedients. Your powerful hold on the affections of the public is the result of your real service to the public.

"Because of your great influence over the ignorant, and because ignorance is the most dangerous power in the world, and its own worst enemy. I appeal to you, in whatever field you may labor, to aid my profession in its great task of leading the ignorant into the light of truth and culture. My appeal is to you not as physicians, but as citizens."

HARDSHIPS OF ILLITERACY.

Continuing, Dr. McIver said that the supreme question of civilization was that of education, and that education should be universal and unlimited. He spoke plainly of the hardships of illiteracy, of the value of knowledge.

COUNTING THE COST.

Said he, 'education is expensive, but the need of this hour is a number of educational evangelists with sufficient courage, eloquence, logic, and power to convince the people of the profound truth, that ignorance and illiteracy cost more than education.'

He spoke eloquently of the women in the home, as the greatest of all teachers, and plead most earnestly for woman's education. The statistics he gave of illiteracy among the women of the South, were appalling, and made the audience think. He said, however, that Virginia was ahead of the Southern States in this respect.

The entire speech was ably prepared and most admirably delivered. It held the vast audience in the strictest attention, and at the end brought forth prolonged applause.

Love Laughs at Languages.

Evening Wisconsin.

A most peculiar wedding took place at the town of Bristol yesterday afternoon when George Hubbard and Miss Amelia Krohn, both mutes, were united in marriage. The wedding was a very complicated affair. When the contracting party stood before the minister it was decided that the ceremony and the responses should be written, as the minister was not able to speak in the sign language. At this point another complication arose, as it was discovered that the bride was not able to read or write English, the language known to the groom, while the groom could not read German, the language of the bride. For some time it looked as if the wedding would have to be postponed, but the difficulties were finally surmounted by the aid of interpreters who translated the wedding service into the two languages. With this arrangement the couple were finally joined in marriage. The courtship of the happy pair was a very romantic one, as they met each other in a school for mutes and the friendship formed while both were exceedingly young resulted in the marriage.

"Kissing Bug" Bites a Man.

Indianapolis Sentinel.

Judge McMaster yesterday made a finding for the plaintiff in the case of Frank Carson against an accident insurance company for $30.20. In making this decision holds that the bite of an insect which incapacitates a man from following his usual avocation should be classified the same as any other accident.

Carson is supposed to be the victim of a "kissing bug." While asleep in his home one night last summer he was awakened by a stinging sensation. When fully awake he brushed a bug from his face, which made a hasty departure through the window. The bite of the insect caused a large swelling and was so painful Carson was unable to attend to his duties and consequently had to remain at home. He carried an accident policy and demanded payment for the time he had lost. His request being refused, he brought suit for the amount and the finding of Judge McMaster yesterday was the result.

NAME FOR KODOL.

The only instance on record when a postoffice has been named after a patent medicine, was last year, when in Wetzel county, W. Va., a new postoffice was established and named Kodol, after the famous Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, manufactured by E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago. It had given such satisfactory results that the name was unanimously selected by the people for the new office and adopted by the department at Washington, D. C.

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks Mother's Friend is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."—Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. Mother's Friend takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

A PLEASANT EVENING

The Entertainment at the State Normal last night was a decided success.

The entertainment given at the State Normal last night by the Adelphean Literary Society was a decided success. The play was good one, and the parts were well taken.

Miss Mary Cator as Mr. Boffin was exceedingly funny, and kept the audience in continued laughter. Miss Will Warder Steele, as George Sampson, a dude, was "Cholly, dear boy," to perfection.

The music which interspersed the performance was of a high order of excellence and was much appreciated. The orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Brockmann, played several selections, Miss Lillie Jackson played a piano solo, and a quartette and chorus of the students added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Got No Fish.

The crowd who went fishing yesterday returned last night sadder and wiser men, for the fish were much too wary to venture forth, and tempting bait had no effect on them. Its no use for any one else to try, for when the crowd that went yesterday fails to catch fish something is the matter.
